ATR VERDICT: COPPER KAY was a highly thought of bumper horse who had flattered to deceive over hurdles earlier this season. However, she went down on her shield when second in a valuable Grade 2 novice event for the females at Newbury and should be difficult to pass now on the back of that. Swatow put in a much improved performance on her second start for Emma Lavelle at Southwell last month and can be the one to follow the selection home, while Athy River has plenty of racecourse experience and that can help her be the next best.

Top Tip: COPPER KAY
Watch out for: SWATOW
