ATR VERDICT: Sir Michael Stoute broke his St Leger hoodoo with Conduit back in 2008 and has campaigned his runner this year, Crystal Ocean, in a similar vein with the pair having won the Gordon Stakes at Goodwood as their final preparation for the race. The main concern would be over the colt's stamina for this test and the fact he is likely to prove a better horse next year when contesting top 1m4f events. Capri and Stradivarius both arrive on the back of successes at the highest level but the former missed his intended prep run in the Great Voltigeur due to a dirty scope, while the latter has shaped as though he would improve for going further as opposed to dropping back in trip. John Gosden's other representative, Coronet, makes some appeal with the St Leger test looking right up her street after a good effort when chasing home her stable companion Enable in the Yorkshire Oaks at York. Rekindling has some strong form in the book having beaten Wicklow Brave two starts ago at the Curragh before chasing home last week's Irish St Leger hero Order Of St George at the same track last month and looks to represent solid each-way value, but DEFOE ticks all the boxes in one of the most exciting renewals of the race in recent years. Roger Varian and Andrea Atzeni teamed up with Kingston Hill to land the prize in 2014 and this son of Dalakhani hasn't looked back since landing the London Gold Cup at Newbury back in May, returning to the same track last month and winning the Geoffrey Freer in good style. He has continued to progress at a rapid rate of knots, improving with each start with the step up in trip suiting, and any more rain will boost his chances for a team who have an excellent record at Doncaster.
