Long Handicap: Midnight Tune 9 - 5

ATR VERDICT: Chasing has been abandoned with the likeable Copper Kay, who looks to hold leading claims here on the best of her hurdles form from last season with the Philip Hobbs stable hitting their stride of late. She is closely matched on her EBF Mares Final outing with Tara View, who is a multiple winner and a must for the shortlist, while Ellens Way lowered the Hobbs seven-year-old's colours at Warwick and is interesting following a break. Secret Door and Wizard's Sliabh are both entitled to improve for their Uttoxeter pipe-opener's where they finished third and fourth on ground which may not have seen them at their best. They are both considered here, with the latter having seen the form of her Haydock Challenger Series Final victory franked earlier this week and she appears to be the Harry Fry first string here. However, a chance is taken on THE ORGANIST, who failed to fire when tried over fences during the early part of last season, but ran with credit when returned to hurdles in the spring and should arguably have finished closer than the 13-length fourth she achieved at Cheltenham last time when hampered badly approaching the final hurdle by the eventual winner.

Top Tip: THE ORGANIST (3)
