ATR VERDICT: Altior returned from a wind problem to readily see off two opponents, including the reopposing Politologue, at Newbury last month and he will be fancied by many to maintain his unbeaten record over fences. However, it was announced on Monday that Nicky Henderson's charge was lame and some puss had been located in the frog of his foot, so with his participation hanging in the balance, the vote goes to DOUVAN. The eight-year-old has also had his well-publicised problems, not featuring since injuring himself in last year's renewal of this event, but recent vibes from the Mullins camp have been positive and it speaks volumes that Ruby Walsh has chosen to ride him over stablemate Min. The last-named runner arrives having had a much better preparation, bolting up in Grade 2 company at the Dublin Racing Festival last time, and he seems sure to run a big race, while Politologue and last season's winner Special Tiara may interest those looking to play each-way.

Top Tip: DOUVAN (4)
Watch out for: ALTIOR (1)
