ATR VERDICT: A 10lb rise for a five-length win at Musselburgh makes life tougher for MAHLER LAD, but a chance is taken on Donald McCain's strong stayer being up to the challenge having had plenty in hand of his rivals that day and having had a good break from the track. Achill Road Boy was an easy winner over course and distance when last seen and he is capable of playing a leading role once again, while Misfits, who was second that day is entitled to bridge the near four-length gap at the revised terms. Irish raider Milanesque and Attention Please are others with solid claims.
